CDM ELECTRONICS SIGNS DISTRIBUTION AGREEMENT WITH KINGS ELECTRONICS

February 1, 2008, Irvine, Ca...CDM Electronics, Inc., a leading distributor of commercial and military (MIL-SPEC) interconnect products, and provider of high precision cable assemblies and value-added contract manufacturing services, today announced the signing of a worldwide distribution agreement with Kings Electronics Corporation, a premier manufacturer of RF connectors. Under the terms of the agreement, CDM will distribute Kings' extensive range of standard, RoHS-compliant connectors and adapters, as well as provide engineering and design support services for those customers requiring assistance for their OEM and cable assembly requirements.

Included in Kings' offering are over 600 connectors and adapters qualified to MIL-PRF-39012 and MIL-PRF-55339, more than any other manufacturer. These products service a wide array of applications in the military, avionics, communications, broadcast, wireless and test & measurement sectors.

"The worldwide market for RF applications continues to flourish. Moreover, customers continually desire better performance from their RF connectors, and challenge us with more demanding and creative application requirements," stated Lori Maeder, Senior Product Manager of CDM. "Furthermore, the recent merger of Kings and Winchester Electronics makes this offering even stronger."

Ron Ciecko, Global Distribution Manager at Winchester/Kings Electronics stated, "CDM is Winchester Electronics' largest legacy products distributor and their business model is well suited for expanding our RF presence on a national level. We are pleased to have such an excellent stocking distributor to service our broad customer base and look forward to a mutually successful relationship."
