CDM Electronics is pleased to present the full line of Times Microwave Lightning Protection Products

TURNERSVILLE, N.J. - CDM Electronics, a premier authorized distributor for manufacturers of electronic connectors and cables, now offers the full line of Times Microwave Systems Lightning Protection. CDM has been a long time partner of Times Microwave Systems and welcomes the addition to the existing line of LMR products.

Times Microwave System's unique surge protection devices address applications throughout the RF frequency range from DC through 6GHz. Features of these products include excellent passive intermodulation performance (PIM), outstanding IL/RL characteristics, high surge current rating and broadband multi-strike design. These lightning surge and protection products also feature a fully weatherized housing that meets the IP67 standard.

"We are excited to offer the addition of Lightning Protection to our customers. This broadens the range of accessory products CDM is able to offer in conjunction with the trusted LMR brand." stated Lori Maeder, Operations Manager of CDM.
